

txtemailAddress: Section 40
txtincident: 22:52 23 February 2009
txtrequest: Dear Sir/Madam,

I live by Waterloo, London, on a 10th floor flat overlooking a substantial part of the southern part of the city. I have become quite perturbed over the past couple of nights by UFO's, of which I believe that I have seen 3 of varying sizes.

My profession is that of a CEO of two companies listed on the stockmarket, and so I like to think of myself as a sensible and sane individual.

The sightings involve one object with a white light and alternating red lights at an angle. The object came from south-east London, headed toward Canary Wharf, stopped in mid air, at which point an alternating sequence of red lights flashed at a 180 degree angle with the top light being on the left hand side of the object with the lights moving down toward the bottom right of the angle, before the lights switched side instantaneously and the object went back toward south-east London. Roughly one minute later the object returned in my direction, the red lights continuing to flash alongside it, before it headed north over my apartment and out of sight.

My most recent sighting took place at 22:52 tonight, 23 February 2009. This sighting occurred for four seconds, and was the flashing of a huge object taking up a portion of the sky the size of which I have never seen before. It appeared to be flying low, and had, as I recall, three lights, of which one I believe was a normal white light, and the other two were green lights. It vanished out of my sight almost immediately, and I was unable to track the lights.

If you are able to shed light on either of these two incidents I would be most grateful. I do not proclaim to be an expert in helicopters, but am able to spot one from my window with ease normally.

Many thanks.

Yours Faithfully,